Resignation and termination by Mahara McKay:

Mahara McKay reserves the right to exclude participants from a lesson if they are in breach of the contract or permanently disrupt the lesson.

If the announced minimum number of participants for private course or event is not reached by the last possible register-date, Mahara McKay reserves the right to reclaim from the offered course or event. Participants will receive a full refund. However Mahara McKay does not cover for any costs that accrued to the participant before the start of a private course or event (hotel, travel, and other).

Changes, prevention and failure

If a course or event unit cannot be carried out due to increased violence, the participant is not entitled to a refund of the course or event fees. In case of force majeure, e.g. pandemic, the studio reserves the right to make a new appointment or to maintain the classroom lessons through online instruction. There is no provision for a refund of course or event fees.

Limitation of liability

We cannot accept any liability for bodily and health damage. Each participant must decide for himself whether participation in our courses or events is compatible with his/her physical and psychological condition. If necessary, please consult your doctor in advance. Read the course description carefully, where if necessary it is mentioned for whom the event is NOT suitable. In addition, a "disclaimer form" will have to be filled in by each participant on the course day before the course or event starts.
